

Information Art. 13 Legislative Decree no. 196 of 30.06.2003 (Personal Data Protection Code)

Pursuant to and for the effects of the provisions of Legislative Decree no. 196 of 30.06.2003 on the protection of personal data, we inform you that I SALONI NAUTICI S.p.A., with registered office at the address of Piazzale Kennedy no. 1, Genoa, Tax Code no. 02255000990, and its directors, employees, contractors and consultants, hold and will be in possession of information relating to you with regard to the relationships between you and them.

This data is and will be processed - through the use of automated electronic means and/or manually, if necessary - in compliance with the law, according to the principles of lawfulness and propriety and in such a way as to protect the confidentiality and the rights granted to you.

Your data will not be used for any purposes other than for those listed below and will be kept exclusively for such purposes and not beyond the time required by law.

In particular, your data is processed for the following purposes: (a) the fulfilment of regulatory obligations, such as accounting and tax requirements; (b) the requirements derived from the fact of your company or yourself assuming contractual obligations; (c) the historical archiving of data; (d) advertising and/or promotional purposes and/or to ascertain the level of customer satisfaction.

We inform you that the provision of data required to meet regulatory requirements is mandatory and the failure to provide it will result in the impossibility of implementing the services. The provision of other data is optional, however, in the case of data strictly functional to the establishment and continuation of the relationship with our company, your refusal to respond may result in the impossibility of implementing or continuing the services requested, except in the cases where you do not agree to the processing purposes referred to in section (d).

Your data may be communicated, for the purposes indicated, among other aspects, to: (1) whomever is the legitimate recipient of communications provided by law or by the regulations; (2) management companies of administrative services; (3) directors, employees, contractors, consultants of our company.

Given the existence of computerised telematic or correspondence links with the subjects listed above, your information may be transferred abroad, including outside of the E.U.

However you may always contact I SALONI NAUTICI S.p.A., with registered office at the address of Piazzale Kennedy no. 1 Genoa, Tax Code no. 02255000990, to assert your rights, as provided by Arts. 7, 8, 9, 10 of Legislative Decree no. 196 of 30.06.2003, which for convenience we detail here in full:

Art. 7 - Right to access personal data and other rights

1. The party concerned has the right to obtain confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning them exists, even if it is not yet recorded, and the communication of such data in intelligible form.
2. The party concerned has the right to obtain information on:
 - a) the origin of personal data;
 - b) the purposes and procedures of data processing;
 - c) the logic applied when data is processed by electronic means;
 - d) the identity of the owner, responsible persons, and the designated representative in accordance with Article 5, paragraph 2;
 - e) the subjects or categories of subjects to whom the personal data may be communicated, or who can learn about it as appointed representatives of the State, of responsible persons, or persons in charge.
3. The party concerned has the right to demand:
 - a) that the data be updated, corrected or, if desired, integrated;
 - b) that data processed unlawfully, including data that does not need to be retained for the purposes for which the data was collected or subsequently processed, be deleted, anonymised, or blocked;
 - c) evidence that those to whom the data was communicated or distributed have been notified of the operations referred to in letter a) and b), including the exact content, unless fulfilling this requirement proves to be impossible or entails manifestly disproportionate measures with respect to the protected right.

4. The party concerned has the right to oppose, wholly or in part:
 - a) for legitimate reasons, to the processing of personal data, even if pertinent for collection purposes;
 - b) to the processing of their personal data for the purpose of sending of advertising materials, direct sales, or for carrying out market research or commercial communications.

Art. 8 - Exercise of rights

1. The rights referred to in Article 7 are exercised with an informal request to the data controller or data manager, also through an agent, to whom adequate response will be provided without delay.
2. The rights referred to in Article 7 may not be exercised with a request to the data controller or data manager or under the terms pursuant to Article 145 if the processing of personal data is performed:
 - a) under the provisions of Decree-Law no. 143 of 3rd May 1991, converted, with amendments, by the Law no. 197 of 5th July 1991, as amended, concerning money laundering;
 - b) under the provisions of Decree-Law no. 419 of 31st December 1991 converted, with amendments, by the Law no. 172 of 18th February 1992, as amended, concerning support for victims of extortion demands;
 - c) by parliamentary commissions of inquiry set up under Article 82 of the Constitution;
 - d) by a public body other than Economic Public Bodies, according to an express provision of law, exclusively for purposes relating to monetary and currency policy, the system of payments, control of brokers and credit and financial markets and the protection of their stability;
 - e) pursuant to Article 24, paragraph 1, letter f), limited to the period during which a real and concrete prejudice could arise for the performance of the defensive investigations or for the exercise of rights in a judicial process;
 - f) by providers of electronic communications services accessible to the public in relation to incoming phone calls, unless this results in a real and concrete prejudice to the conduct of defensive investigations pursuant to the Law no. 397 of 7th December 2000;
 - g) for reasons of justice at the judicial authorities of all types and at all levels or at the Superior Council of Magistracy or at other self-governing bodies or the Ministry of Justice;
 - h) pursuant to Article 53, without prejudice to the provisions under the Law no. 121 of 1st April 1981.
3. The Guarantor, including where alerted by the party concerned, in the cases referred to in paragraph 2, letters a), b), d), e) and f), shall act in the manner provided for in Articles 157, 158 and 159 and, in the cases referred to in letters c), g) and h) of that paragraph, shall act in the manner provided for in Article 160.
4. The exercise of the rights referred to in Article 7, when it does not concern objective data, may take place unless it concerns the rectification or the integration of personal evaluation data relating to judgements, opinions or other subjective assessments, and the indication of behaviours to be implemented or decision-making activities by the data controller.

Art. 9 - Mode of exercise

1. The request to the data controller or data manager may also be sent by registered letter with acknowledgement of receipt, by fax or email. The Guarantor may identify another suitable system with regard to new technological solutions. When it concerns the rights referred to in Article 7, paragraphs 1 and 2, the request may also be made verbally and in that case it is briefly noted by the person in charge or by the manager.
2. In the exercise of the rights referred to in Article 7 the party concerned may grant, in writing, powers of representation or proxy to individuals, institutions, associations or to organisations. The party concerned may also be assisted by a person of trust.
3. The rights pursuant to Article 7 referring to personal data concerning deceased persons may be exercised by those who have an interest or by those who are acting to protect the party concerned or for family reasons deserving protection.
4. The identity of the party concerned is verified on the basis of suitable elements of assessment including through records or documents available or through the presentation or attaching of a copy of an identification document. The person who acts on behalf of the party concerned presents or attaches a copy of the proxy or of the power of representation signed in the presence of an agent or signed and submitted with a non-authenticated photocopy of an identification document of the party concerned. If the party concerned is a legal person, an entity or an association, the request is filed by a person entitled under the respective statutes or regulations.

5. The request referred to in Article 7, paragraphs 1 and 2 is formulated freely and without constrictions and may be renewed, unless in the case of justified reasons, after not less than ninety days

Art. 10 - Response to the party concerned

1. To ensure the effective exercise of the rights referred to in Article 7, the data controller is obliged to take suitable measures, in particular:
 - a) to facilitate access to the personal data by the party concerned, including through the use of appropriate computer programs that enable precise selection of the data concerning the interested parties identified or identifiable;
 - b) to simplify the procedures and to reduce the times for a response to the applicant, also within offices or services relating to dealings with the public.
2. The data is extracted by the data manager or by persons in charge and may also be communicated to the applicant verbally or provided for consultation by electronic means, on condition that in such cases understanding of the data is possible, also considering the quality and the quantity of the information. Where requested, the data can be transposed into paper-based or computerised form or can be transmitted electronically.
3. Unless the request refers to a particular case of processing or to specific personal data or categories of personal data, the response to the party concerned includes all the personal data that concerns them and in any case processed by the data holder. If the request is directed to a health care practitioner or to a health organisation, the provision of Article 84, paragraph 1 is observed.
4. When the data retrieval is especially difficult, the response to the request of the party concerned may also take place through the production or delivery of a copy of the records and documents containing the personal data requested.
5. The right to obtain communication in an intelligible form of the data does not apply to personal data relating to third parties, unless the breaking down of the data being processed or the elimination of certain elements makes the personal data relating to the party concerned incomprehensible.
6. Communication of the data is also performed in an intelligible form through the use of legible handwriting. In the case of communication of codes or abbreviations, also by those in charge, the parameters for the understanding of their meaning are provided.
7. When, following a request under Article 7, paragraphs 1 and 2, letters a), b) and c), the existence of data regarding the party concerned is not confirmed, a fee not exceeding the costs actually incurred for the search conducted in this case may be charged.
8. The fee referred to in paragraph 7 may not exceed the amount determined by the Guarantor with provision of a general nature, that may identify this on a flat-rate basis in relation to the case where the data is processed by electronic means and the response is provided verbally. With the same provision the Guarantor may provide that the fee may be charged if the personal data is contained on a particular medium whose reproduction is specifically requested or when, involving one or several data controllers, a significant use of resources is determined in relation to the complexity or to the magnitude of the requests and the existence of data relating to the party concerned is confirmed.
9. The fee referred to in paragraphs 7 and 8 may also be paid by postal or bank means, or by debit or credit card, if possible upon receipt of the relevant response and in any case within fifteen days of this response.

Cookie

The site uses cookies, text lines useful to perform automatic authentication, tracing sessions and storing specific information about users.

The Internet browser provides the ability to prevent the site rescue and the use of cookies. In this way, however, it could be prevented from complete or correct functioning of the features offered by the site itself.

The data controller uses cookies on the site mainly for the purpose of collecting data to help improve the site and to produce usage statistics related to navigation, page views, favorite items, the clicks made by users, and cookies third-parts partners or suppliers of the data controller.

The types of cookies in particular used on the site are the following:

- cookie session management: facilitate access to the site and browsing the same;
- cookies performance monitoring: to assess site performance monitoring use by users; the data collected through these cookies is treated in an anonymous and aggregated and therefore provide mere statistical information on the number of visitors to the site, where they came from and the pages you visit;
- cookie functionality: they allow you to store the settings selected by users on the site so as to improve the usability and functionality for the user;

On the site you can at all times choose which cookies you want to receive and which not by using the settings panel of your browser. However, if you decide not to accept certain cookies, you may not be able to use some functionality of the website.

Technical third-parts cookies

The site uses Google Analytics, a web analytics service provided by Google from third parts that send cookies to your device.

The information generated by the cookie about your use of the Site (including your IP address, indicating your identity on the Internet) are transmitted to Google and stored by Google on servers in the United States. Google uses this information to detect your use of the Site, prepare reports on website activity for website operators and providing other services relating to website activity and internet usage. Google may also transfer this information to third parts if required by law or if third parties process this information on behalf of Google. Google will not associate your IP address with any other data that Google has. For more information about Google Analytics, you can consult Cookies and Analytics e la relativa privacy policy per Google Analytics.