B) Identity and contact details for: the Joint Data Controllers and DPO

In accordance with the current laws regarding personal data protection (i.e. UE Regulation 2016/679 - General Data Protection Regulation, hereinafter referred to as “GDPR” and, where applicable, Legislative Decree 196/03), we would like to inform you that the companies I Saloni and C.N., both located at Via S. Nazaro n.11, 16145 Genoa – Italy are Joint Data Controllers (in accordance with art. 26 GDPR) of your personal data (hereinafter referred to jointly as Joint Controllers) and can be contacted at the following contact details: Tel +39 010 5769811; preferred e-mail address: info@isaloninautici.com.

DPO and Contact Point in relation to the requirements of art. 26 GDPR is Mrs Laura Marretta, who may be contacted at the Joint Controllers’ telephone number and at the following email address: dpo@isaloninautici.com

The Joint Data Controllers, as required by art. 12 GDPR, adopt the following policy in order to provide those concerned with the information referring to art. 13 GDPR and all notifications with regards to articles 15 to 22 GDPR concerning the processing of any personal data provided. The policy describes how we collect, use and process your personal data, and how, in doing so, we provide services and fulfil our legal obligations to you. Your privacy is important to us and we are committed to protecting and safeguarding your rights with regards to the protection of your personal data under the basic principles of legality, good practice and transparency.

All Policies herein contained do not apply to other websites made available via our own links, for which the Joint Controllers are in no way responsible.

C). Our data processing policy during website navigation

The Joint Data Controllers would like to inform you that the Personal data you have provided via interaction with said Controllers through the use of this website or by filling out our forms, data that does not fall under the specific categories of personal data as listed in art. 9 GDPR, regarding themselves (including when operating as an individual enterprise, small business owner or freelance professional) or their employees, agents, representatives or collaborators (the "Data"), will be treated in accordance with the requirements of the GDPR regulation. The treatment of said data is carried out on the basis of the legal conditions required by art. 6 GDPR, for purposes relating to the established relationship with the Joint Controllers, therefore, the legal basis for the treatment as required by art. 13 letter c GDPR finds its justification in the reasons for which said relationship was established, the reasons, that is, for accessing the site as a visitor or user or for sending a data gathering form filled out on this website or downloaded from this site and subsequently sent in view of benefitting from the service relating to said form.

The treatment of data provided to the Joint Controllers will include: the management, organisation, use, treatment in EU and extra-EU territories (countries, that is, which fall under those referred to in articles 45 and 46 GDPR), the conservation, the creation of anonymous statistics and communication to third parties licensed by the Joint Controllers as Data Processors in accordance with art. 28 GDPR including with regards to website maintenance and to other Bodies, Institutions and the Italian Trade Agency. We gather a limited amount of data from users visiting our website, data which we make use of to optimise your experience while using said website and to manage the services we provide. Such data includes information concerning how our website is used, access frequency and moments of peak popularity of the site itself (see our Cookies Policy). We would also remind you that while navigating through our website you will be given the opportunity to contact the Joint Controllers, including via non-digital means.

Processing also includes the deletion and modification of data gathered following notification on behalf of the data subject, along with their consultation, notifications of our upcoming initiatives, elaboration, soft spam and light marketing, the light sending of promotional material and promoting conferences and talks (unless the subject opposes such processing which may be declared by sending an e-mail to the address info@isaloninautici.com with "Opposizione" as the e-mail's subject line). Please also be reminded that the sending of e-mails on behalf of visitors to the e-mail addresses provided on this website will, for the relevant purposes expressed on a case-by-case basis, cause the acquisition and subsequent processing of the sender's e-mail address and any other personal data included in the message as described above. By sending an e-mail users will also be confirming their knowledge and acceptance of the relative Privacy Policy.

D). Our data processing policy with regards to becoming an Exhibitor

The Joint Controllers inform you that all personal data provided of your own initiative in order to become an Exhibitor at the Genoa International Boat Show trade fair will be processed in accordance with the principles and requirements of the GDPR regulations and of the current national legal framework. Processing is carried out on the basis of principles that apply to personal data processing according to art. 5 GDPR and of the conditions of legality as described in art. 6 GDPR with regards to purposes that pertain to the relationship established with the Joint Controllers; as a consequence, the legal foundation of such processing, as required by art. 13 letter c GDPR, is justified by the very reasons for which such a relationship is established with the Joint Controllers, that is, in this case, the request to become an Exhibitor at the Genoa

International Boat Show trade fair or to take part in other initiatives of ours (art 6 comma 1 letter b). In view of such purposes, the processing of data provided to the Joint Controllers may include the organisation, conservation, consultation, elaboration, extrapolation, processing within EU and non-EU territories solely in the cases described in articles 45 and 46 GDPR, the confirmation of necessary requirements for exhibiting at the trade fair, the creation of anonymous statistics and deletion. Furthermore the processing will include the deletion and modification of said processed data following notification on behalf of the data relative subject and the data's consultation. Should you give express consent at the bottom of the relative form, the Joint Controllers may send you commercial communications. The data subject reserves the right to revoke said consent at any time. By revoking their consent the data subject in no way affects the legality of the relating data processing carried out, based on the consent given prior to the moment in which it was revoked (art 7 GDPR). In order to exercise their right to revoke their consent, the data subject may either write to the DPO or follow the instructions provided at the bottom of the emails they receive. Providing data is optional; should the data provided be only partial or untrue, only the application to become an Exhibitor may not be accepted. It remains agreed that the data subject, by providing their data via the relevant form, is responsible for their accuracy and veracity. Furthermore, should said subject provide data relating to third parties (relating, for example, to brands they intend to exhibit), the subject will be responsible for the data's accuracy and veracity and with regards to their ability to provide such data, guaranteeing that the data may legally be used by the Joint Controllers and indemnifying the latter from any form of claim that might arise whatsoever and from any request for compensation due with regards to damages that might be direct and/or indirect. The data will be preserved for the necessary amount of time for the purposes of their collection to be completed.

E) Our data processing policy with regards to becoming a Partner

The Joint Controllers inform you that all personal data provided of your own initiative in order to become a Partner of the Genoa International Boat Show trade fair will be processed in accordance with the principles and requirements of the GDPR regulations and of the current national legal framework. Processing is carried out on the basis of principles that apply to personal data processing according to art. 5 GDPR and of the conditions of legality as described in art. 6 GDPR with regards to purposes that pertain to the relationship established with the Joint Controllers; as a consequence, the legal foundation of such processing, as required by art. 13 letter c GDPR, is justified by the very reasons for which such a relationship is established with the Joint Controllers, that is, in this case, the request to become a commercial Partner of the Genoa International Boat Show trade fair or of other events or other initiatives of ours (art 6 comma 1 letter b). In view of such purposes, the processing of data provided to the Joint Controllers may include the organisation, conservation, consultation, elaboration, extrapolation, processing within EU and non-EU territories solely in the cases described in articles 45 and 46 GDPR, the confirmation of necessary requirements for exhibiting at the trade fair, the creation of anonymous statistics and deletion. Furthermore the processing will include the deletion and modification of said processed data following notification on behalf of the data relative subject and the data's consultation. Should you give express consent at the bottom of the relative form, the Joint Controllers may send you commercial communications. The data subject reserves the right to revoke said consent at any time. By revoking their consent the data subject in no way affects the legality of the relating data processing carried out, based on the consent given prior to the moment in which it was revoked (art 7 GDPR). In order to exercise their right to revoke their consent, the data subject may either write to the DPO or follow the instructions provided at the bottom of the emails they receive.

The data will be preserved for the necessary amount of time for the purposes of their collection to be completed.

F) Our data processing policy with regards to satisfying your requests for information and general satisfaction of any requests made via the section dedicated to contacting us

In accordance with articles 12 and 13 of EU Regulation n. 2016/679 (referred to hereinafter for the sake of brevity as GDPR), the Joint Data Controllers will use the data you provide solely in order to satisfy requests made through the completion and sending of the relative form, following the use of the pertinent service provided on the website in question to contact the Joint Data Controllers and receive information as requested and in line with your interests. The Controller will also send you marketing communications relating to the nautical world and its initiatives only after your explicit consent expressed at the end of the online form. Providing data is optional, however, partial data or failure to provide such data may cause the relevant requests made to the Joint Data Controllers to be either partially or entirely unsatisfied, by sending requests to the Joint Data Controllers you also consent to the present policy. The legal basis of the relative data processing is the consent demonstrated and given by the data subject in the form of sending the communication with for which they wish to receive a reply (legal foundation: consent in accordance with art. 4 paragraph 11). The legal basis for receiving marketing communications is the consent freely expressed through the choice to be made on the online form, revocable at any time by sending a communication to the DPO. The data subject reserves the right to revoke said consent at any time. By revoking their consent the data subject in no way affects the legality of the relating data processing carried out, based on the consent given prior to the moment in which it was revoked (art 7 GDPR). The data will be stored in order to respond to your requests and, in case of your consent, to receive commercial communications only for the time necessary to fulfill the purpose of the collection.

G). Our policy in accordance with art. 14 GDPR

The present online space is also used by the Joint Controllers to provide data subjects with the Policy defined in accordance with art. 14 GDPR, in fact, in a number of cases, the Joint Controllers have collected data deriving from various public domain sources, as regulated in cons. 61 GDPR, such as newspapers, blogs, public lists, online searches, all data that is collected and processed in view of the same purpose for which said data was originally collected by the source and which does not fall under the specific categories of personal data as listed in art. 9 GDPR. Said data, including data provided by our commercial and institutional partners (personal details and email contacts), form a part of the Joint Controllers' DB (the legal basis for the treatment as required by art. 13 letter c GDPR finds its legal foundation in the legitimate interests of the Joint Controllers in accordance with art. 6 paragraph f) used (in EU and extra-EU territories which fall under those referred to in articles 45 and 46 GDPR) to carry out soft spam, solely on behalf of the Joint Data Controllers, to keep you informed of our initiatives (i.e.: reminder to register for the Genoa Boat Show or connected events broadly relating to the boating world), which the recipient may take advantage of to better execute their own recreational/professional activities or unsubscribe from at any time by simply following the instructions provided in the footer of all communications or by sending an e-mail to info@isaloninautici.com with “Opposizione” (“Opposition”) as its subject line.

H) Our Newsletter Policy

The notification service – or Newsletter – regarding the Controllers’ activities is reserved for specific categories of registered users. In order to provide and manage this service, the Controllers use tools and services provided by the website www.mailup.it . For further details on how Mailup processes personal data, please carefully consult the following link: <https://www.mailup.it/informativa-privacy/>. Not providing your data will have no consequence for the user, except for the impossibility for the user to benefit from the requested services, should they not provide the necessary data, services they may later unsubscribe from by clicking the unsubscribe button found at the bottom of every communication. For further details please read the specific policy which can be found on the website in the dedicated section: https://salonenautico.com/wp-content/uploads/2021/07/Area-Newsletter_EN2021.pdf.

I) Our personal data processing policy with regards to candidates

In accordance with the current privacy-related legal framework, any candidate who supplies their CV will receive the relevant personal data processing policy upon their first meaningful contact following the receipt of the CV sent of the candidate’s own initiative. During the recruitment process the employer may examine the “social profiles” of candidates, if the destination of said candidate’s profiles are not private. The collection and subsequent processing of data derived from said profiles will be carried out only where such collection is necessary and pertinent to the execution of the process for which the application was sent in the first place, therefore the data gathered during the recruitment process will be deleted as soon as it becomes clear that no position will be offered to the candidate or, alternatively, that the proposed offer will not be accepted by the candidate. Throughout the internship period, should such a relationship be agreed, the Joint Controllers reserve the ability to monitor the “social profiles” of the data subjects on a non-generalised basis.

J) Our policy with regards to the use of images created by means of photography and/or filming activities carried out during our events

During our events of a public nature (trade fairs, shows, collectives, conventions, assemblies) videos will be filmed and/or photographs will be taken within the location of reference for each single occasion in order to document the events and promote them. The relevant images and footage will be used for the creation of murals, wall posters, they will be used for the creation of promotional stands for events both in Italy and abroad, for catalogues, brochures and/or said images and footage may be shared on this website, on the Group’s website and on our social media platforms. These will not in any way be damaging to the honour and decorum of the data subject and will be used solely to promote the Joint Controllers and their activities. The Joint Controllers will not pay any form of compensation for the above. Any image of yourself that might derive from photographs and/or videos created during events/shows that are open to the public, require no form of explicit consent on behalf of the portrayed subject. On this point, however, the Joint Controllers commit to following all provisions issued by the relevant Authorities with regards to the acquisition of images/videos created during public events. It remains agreed that, should an individual wish for their image to be removed or deleted, they may contact us at the following e-mail address: dpo@isaloninautici.com and, following a specific evaluation of the case at hand, we will proceed to act accordingly. If, on the other hand, video footage or photographs are taken during a private event and/or include close-ups of subjects who are under the age of consent or differently abled, the Joint Controllers will be the ones to provide the relevant policies and gather the necessary consent of the data subjects concerned.

K) Common elements present in all our policies:

✓ Data preservation timeframes, data communication/distribution, forms of data processing, profiling, automated decision-making procedures

Data treatment will be carried out in paper form and/or electronic form by subjects who are specifically authorised to carry out said treatment. Providing data is optional, except for the data gathered automatically by the system, and it is agreed that by continuing to use the site and by not deactivating cookies (see our Cookies Policy) the Joint Controllers will be authorised to process said data in order to satisfy the requests on behalf of the data subjects. The data will be communicated to those authorised along with Data Processors operating on behalf of the Joint Data Controllers in order to carry out maintenance and to manage the website and any other necessary legal, technical and administrative matters. The data, not counting the images/photographs/videos as described and regulated above, will not be distributed. The Joint Data Controllers will not carry out any form of data processing based on automated decision-making systems. The data will be stored for 5 years and for the time necessary to achieve the purpose for which it is collected (except for Cookies for which the preservation timeframes are specified in the relative Cookies Policy)

✓ In the event of a data breach:

If the Joint Data Controllers suffer from a data breach as defined in articles 33 and 34 GDPR which would create a risk for the rights and freedom of physical subjects, the Controllers will act accordingly to notify the relevant Authorities and communicate the event to the data subjects involved.

✓ Data subject's rights

The Joint Data Controllers would like to inform you that you have the right to rectify (art. 16 GDPR), erase (art. 17 GDPR), limit the processing of (art 18 GDPR) and access all personal data provided and all subsequent information as listed in art. 15 GDPR.

You also have the right to:

- 1) ask the Data Controller for access to personal data and for the correction or deletion of such data or the limitation of its treatment;
- 2) refuse their treatment;

- 3) data portability in accordance with art. 20 GDPR;
- 4) should the treatment be based on art. 6 paragraph 1 letter a, or on art. 9 paragraph 2 letter a, revoke your consent at any time without prejudice to the legality of such treatment based on the consent given prior to the act of revoking it;
- 5) make a claim to a control authority;
- 6) see your rights under art. 21 GDPR recognised, including the right to oppose at any time, for reasons connected to your own specific situation, the treatment of your data for the Controller's legitimate pursuit of their own interest.

You may exercise your above-listed rights or request further information by sending an email to the following address: dpo@isaloninautici.com specifying in the subject line: "esercizio dei diritti ex GDPR" ("exercising GDPR rights") and inserting within the text area the right you wish to exercise. The Controllers, once the request has been processed, will reply in line with the requirements indicated in art. 12 GDPR.

Should you wish to exercise your right of to oppose marketing communications, we would remind you that in order to do so you must insert the word "Opposizione" ("Opposition") as the subject.

We reserve the right to refuse such a request solely for the following reasons:

- for reasons concerning our freedom of expression and information;
- for legal obligations or reasons concerning public interest or official authorities;
- for public health-related reasons;
- for reasons relating to archiving, research or statistics, or to exercise or defend a legal right.

In satisfying a valid request for deletion, we will adopt every reasonable measure necessary for deleting the data in question.

✓ Other purposes

The Controller would also like to inform you that, should they wish to treat your personal data for purposes that differ from those for which the data was gathered, before such treatment can take place, they will provide the concerned individual with information regarding said different purpose and any further information that is pertinent, in order to obtain their consent, should they accept; we would also like to inform you that the Controllers use specific, valid policies for acquiring data in specific contexts which you may consult for each individual instance (such as joining the association, registering for a trade show, etc.).

L) Navigation data, Plug-ins, Social Media

The IT systems and software procedures required for this site to function acquire, during their usual functions, personal data the transmission of which is implicit when using internet communication protocols. This data is used solely to obtain anonymous statistic information on the site's use and to ensure its correct functioning. The data is subsequently deleted immediately after its processing. The data could be used to determine responsibility in the case of hypothetical IT-related crimes perpetrated against the site.

The website also uses social plug-ins (for example, in relation to social media platforms such as Facebook, YouTube and Twitter), for which the Joint Controllers are in no way responsible; therefore please read the relative privacy policies of the respective owners of said plug-ins.

As for the processing of personal data that is carried out by the social media platforms used by the Controller, please consider the information provided by those platforms through their privacy policies. The personal data made available by users through the social media pages the Controller processed in order to handle user interactions (comments, public posts, etc) in full compliance with the applicable legislation

A cookie is a small text file obtained from a website and stored on the user's hard drive. Thus cookies can identify unequivocally the browser used. Cookies do not damage the user's computer nor do they contain viruses. They are needed to simplify web traffic analysis or notify when a specific site is visited and they allow web applications to send information to individual users. Cookies and other tracing tools may present different characteristics depending on their timing profile and must therefore be considered separately depending on their duration (so-called session cookies are automatically deleted once the browser is closed while so-called persistent cookies remain on the user's device until a predetermined moment in time) and also from a subjective standpoint (so-called first party cookies can be configured directly by the website or web server the user is visiting while so-called third party cookies are cookies the user may receive on their device from websites or web servers that are different from the site they are visiting, in relation to third-party cookies. the Garante expressly limited the responsibility of the publisher to referring to the information of the party installing such cookies).

The classification that best responds to the various needs relating to data protection is that which is based on two specific macro-categories:

- a) technical cookies, used solely to "transmit a communication on an electronic communications network or used where strictly necessary by the supplier of a service that is expressly requested by the contractor or user" (art. 122, paragraph 1 Privacy Code);
- b) profiling cookies, used to assign to specific identified or identifiable subjects specific actions or behavioural patterns that recur during the use of the provided functions, in order to group users into various profiles and make it possible to send targeted marketing messages, messages which are therefore in line with the preferences demonstrated by the user while navigating online.

Based on Italy's current applicable legal framework, the use of cookies does not always require consent given by the relative user. Technical cookies, those uses merely for transmitting communications along an electronic communications network or used where strictly necessary by the supplier of a service that is expressly requested by the contractor or user, do not require consent.

We would remind Users of this website to keep in mind the following sections, as provided above, and to keep in mind that they remain valid in this context: data preservation timeframes, forms of data processing, profiling, automated decision-making procedures, in the event of a data breach, data subject's rights and other purposes.
